

New Jersey has one of the best "Do Not Call" acts in the country. There is no need for the federal government to change or amend this procedure in any manner.

If you wish to perform a real service to the public you might consider re-regulating cable companies since their rates are out of sight.